It becomes very apparent that the formulation, solicitation, and ward of contracts within 1 years time may be unrealistic given the complexities. When we created concession reform, we envisioned the existence of contract prospectuses that clearly spelled out the differences and responsibilities of the respondent for the entire term of the contract. If there was to be an increase in franchise fees at certain periods over the term, they were to have been addressed. In addition, costs that a new concessionaire might have to incur in the award of a contract were to be set forth. Estimating certainly can discourage competition, one of the main frames of the concession reform. It does cost a certain amount of money to bid on a proposal, and if you are aware of the entire scope of duties and responsibilities, that expenditure can be justified. If they are unknown or uncertain, the expenditures of funds may not be justified. The bottom line is, we need additional time to do it right.
