After suffering abuse, abandonment, and four amputations at the age of nine, Bob Lujano requested to remain alive. In a coma clinging to life, Lujano, wrapped like a mummy, sat up. A visitor stood at the end of his bed and gave him the choice to live or go to heaven. Staring ahead like a zombie, Lujano gave an unthinkable answer: I dont care what state my body is in. I want to live. I have things to do. His decision was granted. From that day on, he fought to live a full life of independence like everyone else. The National Enquirer called him a gutsy kid. . . who beats the odds when he graduated college, earning both a bachelor and a masters degree in sports medicine. His dreams of elite athlete status were realized in quad rugby, a full contact sport in which he earned a bronze medal at the 2004 Paralympics. Larry King said Lujano and his Murderball teammates and co-stars were inspirational because they wouldnt trade their disability. In fact, Bob does not consider himself to be disabled because he is able to live, work, drive, date, and cook just like the rest of us; independent without caretakers. In an age where image is everything and people are discounted for the way they look, Lujano crashes stereotypes and demands the reader to live their life with everything theyve got. This is no woe-is-me story; Lujano chooses gratitude in the fact that he gets to live and he teaches others to do the same. No Arms, No Legs, No Problem is the inspirational memoir of a quad amputee living life on his own terms.
