Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Fifth Semi-Annual Report on Schools for Freedmen: January 1, 1868 In view of this brief historical summary, philanthropy and Christian faith need not be disheartened. As we have before remarked, the friends of freed men should be urged to increasing confidence. Our government will be paid doubly for all its expenditures. We are not making traces in the sand. Hope may grow strong that our work is enduring and shall remain. This people have a vitality which is being aroused from a long, deep, but enforced stupor, and are to have a career in the future which will compensate for all that has been sorrowful or ignoble in their past servitude. Their education should be pushed forward with enthusiasm, with the certainty of great and permanent results. We now come to the period of our regular report for the six months ending December 31, 1867. Vacation - The first three months of this period in most of the schools was vacation, the southern country not permitting unacclimated teachers to remain in safety during the hot season. In some cases however, especially where native teachers were employed, colored or white, there was but a Short vacation or none at all. During the month of July 773 schools, day or night, were in operation. In August 528, and in September 639. This does not include 575 Sabbath schools in July, 290 in August, and 362 in September. The eagerness of the freedmen and their children to learn, will make short vacations universal as soon as teachers capable of enduring the climate can be provided. Depressing influences - In the early autumn the schools were seriously affected by the alarm of yellow fever. Its...
